Implicit Biases/Stereotype Threat and Pedagogy
Princeton University
Sunday, October 16, 2016

9.00 – 10.00 am: Breakfast, Marx 301

10.00 – 10.20 am: Introductory Discussion, Marx 301

10.20 – 11.40 am: “Flexible Pedagogy as a Tool for Building an Inclusive Classroom”
Morgan Thompson (HPS Pittsburgh) and Liam Kofi Bright (Carnegie Mellon), Marx 301

11.40 – 12.00 pm: Coffee, Marx 301

12.00 – 1.20 pm: “Diminishing Stereotype Threat Inside and Outside the Classroom”
Lauren Freeman (Louisville), Marx 301

1.20 – 2.20 pm: Lunch, Tower Room

2.20 – 3.40 pm: “Three Ways to Undercut Bias in Philosophy”
Eric Schwitzgebel (UC Riverside), Marx 301

3.40 – 4.00 pm: Coffee, Marx 301

4.00 – 5.00 pm: Panel Discussion, Marx 301

The Tower Room and Marx 301 are both in Marx Hall, Princeton University.

This workshop is organized by Minorities and Philosophy and funded by the Princeton University Philosophy Department and the University Center for Human Values.