Princeton-Penn-Columbia
Graduate Conference in Early Modern Philosophy

May 20th, 2017
Room 201 Marx Hall, Princeton University

9:15-10:00   Breakfast in the Tower Room (1879 Hall)

10:00-11:00  "Puzzles about Analysis and Synthesis in Descartes' Second Replies,"
Michael Fitzpatrick (Stanford University)

11:00-12:00  "How Berkeley Connects Idealism and Anti-abstractionism,"
Benjamin Faltesek (UW-Milwaukee)

12:00-1:30   Lunch in the Tower Room

1:30-2:30    "Quasi-Causality and Causality in the Principia:
Newton's Method,"
Adwait Parker (Stanford University)

2:30-3:30    "The Modal Status of Leibniz's Principle of Sufficient Reason,"
Owen Pikkert (University of Toronto)

3:30-4:00    Tea in the Tower Room

4:00-5:30    Keynote Lecture:
“Descartes on the Multiplicity of Extended Substances,”
Martha Bolton (Rutgers University)

5:30-6:30    Light Reception in the Tower Room

7:00-9:00    Dinner